

A Pit Full of Problems

By Daniella

A funny thing happened the last time we were at the coast. We packed our things to go to the beach, then we loaded Ginger into the car. Finally we were off! We were going to stay for a whole week. On the third day, I dug a huge pit in the sand. Since I was ravenous from excavating a giant pit in the soggy sand, I decided to get some munchies. Ginger was dashing toward me. Suddenly, she disappeared! She tumbled into the pit! Only her nose showed as she jumped, trying to escape! She was trapped! It was extremely strange to see a nose sprouting out of the sand! My mom and I dashed over and rescued her. Next time I dig a hole at the beach, I'll be sure to fill it in, for Ginger's sake!
