

Squirrel vs. Dog

By Natalia

Do you know I have a squirrel chaser in my house? It's my Maltese dog Bobi.

He is so cute, but he thinks he's brave. Bobi is a white dog, has beautiful hazel colored eyes, and is very tiny.

In the beginning of the summer, I was doing my math homework right next to the kitchen window. All of a sudden I saw an angry squirrel chewing on the yummy seeds from the bird feeder.

"Hey! Look! There is a fat squirrel eating the seeds," I yelled to my family. Then I quickly brought them to the window. I immediately let out my dog Bobi outside.

"That is so funny," my sister Kalina shouted.

My mom, dad, Kalina, and my brother Serge were right next to me laughing as usual. A few minutes later in my backyard, I saw my dog running around the house and barking at the squirrel. All of a sudden, Bobi tripped in the wet grass. My family gasped for air as he got up fast so he would chase it again. The squirrel was showing its sharp teeth.

My dad exclaimed, "Hey! Bobi's not chasing the squirrel. The squirrel is chasing him now."

That is how Bobi lost his first fight with a squirrel.
