

The Sweet Win

By Thomas

Tweet went the whistle and the game started. One of my teammates kicked the ball down the field to the goal. He shot and we scored! Then they shot but luckily our keeper saved the ball and punted it way down the field. I played defense that game. When they came near our goal, I'd take the ball run with it, and then pass it to my forwards. Eventually we scored four more goals. Then they came up the field, shot, and they scored one. The game was going great until we almost lost the ball on the road. Luckily, someone on the sidewalk caught it and threw it back onto the field. We kept playing to victory. Five to one. Sweet! That wasn't the only thing sweet. A teammate named Hunter brought the end of game snack which was licorice, cookies, chocolate, and fruit punch. YUM!
