

Toothless at the Beach

By Anna

The day when my family and I went to Cannon Beach a funny thing happened to me. When we arrived it was cold and rainy. We were going to play games, and listen to audio books as soon as we unpacked the car. Little did I know that something unexpected was about to happen. It started during dinner while I was eating noodles that I noticed my tooth was loose. After dinner I hardly noticed the pouring of water outside called rain, I just wanted to wiggle my tooth. It was when my brother and I were watching a movie that my tooth came out! As I looked at my bloody tooth for a little bit I thought it was a dream, until my brother said “Why do you have blood all over your mouth?”. I ran into the kitchen to present my tooth to every one and I announced “My toof came out!” The look on my face must have been pretty funny because every one started laughing when they saw me. In fact they were laughing so hard that I started laughing too. Now when ever I or my brother have a loose tooth I remember that funny time at the beach.
